Will Verizon Wireless really spy on us?

2019/07/16

Hello Maggie! People on examiner.com are actually right. Verizon Wireless will really spy on its customers. You know, Verizon is one of the biggest wireless communications providers in USA. Its coverage radius is really huge and it covers almost 100% of populated America. Its coverage is weak over scarcely populated areas though. You should also know that they provide different communication generations support from 2G, which is responsible for voice calls and text messages to 4G LTE, which gives you high speed mobile internet. Now what about spying, it will surely be a sad reality because Verizon Wireless changed its privacy policy and now it can share your personal data such as your web browsing and search history and physical location that will be calculated with a GPS module of your mobile gadget. I can assume that cell phone tower triangulation will be used too. It is done for you to have targeted ads, so the info will be shared for a commercial use. You can really use a jammer in order to protect yourself from Verizon's spying but it won't be way too easy. As you know Verizon supports a wide variety of frequencies in USA from 850/1900 MHz for voice calls to 2500-2700 for 4G. The 3G that uses 2110-2155 MHz frequencies is included. But Jammer-Store has a solution of that Verizon's spying problem. You will need a special kind of jamming device that is pretty new to the market - the combined 2G/3G/4G signal jammer. It's the only device that will work with all Verizon's Wireless communication standards. Thank you for your question. I hope I've managed to help!
